WG VI/4.- TERMS OF REFERENCE:

- Promotion of standards and efficient design of information rich homepages, including Member Report
- Identification and reporting of sources of geo-spatial data, and forms of storage and accessibility
- Promotion of spatial data sharing
- Identification and recommendation of guidelines for spatial data standards and sharing policy

About 30 papers have been submitted and presented in the symposium. The papers are more or less equally distributed within 7 sessions of our WG. For those who submit the paper we extend our sincere thank because without paper it is impossible to run a symposium. Although the topics are vary, but it reflects the author's commitment to the Technical Commission VI - Education and Communication. In conjunction with symposium, an exhibition is also taking part.

A special session on earth monitoring and disaster management has also been added. The WG on earth monitoring and disaster management of the Asia Pacific Advance Network (APAN) support this session. APAN was recognized at the APEC Symposium for Realizing the Information Society Field of R&D Activities in March 1996 as well as the APEC Test-bed Forum in June 1996. Its establishment is to meet requirement of high performance network services for R&D. In this regard, it show how ISPRS maintain their mission to elaborate the regional contact.

In closing, the 1999 Symposium committee feel honored to be your host and looks forward your valuable contribution. We hope this event become a successful and a memorable event for all of us.

Bandung, April 1999
President ISPRS Technical Commission VI

T. Lukman Aziz
